INVESTMENT ACTIVITIES

The City Treasurer's Investment Portfolio has a current rating of "AAf" from Standard and Poor's (S&P). This rating was effective August 8, 2011, as a result of the action of S&P downgrading the debt issues of the United States Treasury and Federal Agencies from a credit rating of "AAA" to "AA+". The credit rating reflects the investment holdings of the City's Investment Portfolio (approximately 54% of funds in Federal Agency issues) and not the management of the investment fund.

It should be pointed out the downgrade in credit rating is the sole action of Standard and Poor’s, since the other two major national credit firms of Moody’s Investor Services and Fitch Ratings have maintained the “AAA” credit rating on all U.S. Treasury and Federal Agency debt issues. Even with the credit downgrade to the investment portfolio, the investment portfolio is still eligible and qualifies as a ‘permitted investment’ for City bond funds (i.e., project or acquisition funds).

This credit rating is for the City’s investment portfolio and does NOT reflect the credit rating of the City’s bond issues.

On August 11, 2008, the City of Anaheim’s Investment Policy was recognized and certified by the Association of Professional Treasurers of the United States and Canada (APT US&C) as meeting all standards and criteria established by the APT US&C.

INVESTMENT ENVIRONMENT

The month of October 2012 saw a small upward rise in interest rates from the end of September 2012, with the six month U.S. Treasury bill closing October at 0.15% as compared to 0.13% for September 2012. The five year U.S. Treasury note closed October at 0.72% and the ten year U.S. Treasury note was at 1.69%. The interest rates continue to remain at these levels in anticipation of the U.S. general election on November 6, 2012. The results on the election will have a significant impact on financial markets in the immediate future, both in the United States and the world. The financial issues in Europe are still a concern for the financial markets, with the European Monetary Fund (EMF) having an ongoing struggle to provide a permanent solution to the capital markets. The financial situation precludes the fact that the entire European union appears to be entering a period of recessionary economic activity, which could impact the revenues of United States multi-national corporations, since the European market accounts for nearly 25 percent of U.S. sales and exports.

The Federal Reserve continues to maintain the benchmark “Federal Funds” rate in the established range of 0.00% to 0.25%. The Fed Funds rate has been at this rate for over three and a half years, since the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) took action at their December 2008 meeting. The FOMC meeting of October 24, 2012 continued its policy statement that the low rate action is in response to “risk to growth.” Federal Reserve Chairman Bernanke has voiced his concern for the lack of new job creation in the economy and has indicated he is prepared to advance additional stimulus, which the financial markets are calling “qualitative easing” or QE 3. Mr. Bernanke has also stated he intends to keep rates at these levels through the end of calendar year 2014 and even into 2015. The chart below shows the interest rates for U. S. Treasury issues for the month ending October 2012:

The U.S. economy continues to show slow incremental growth. One economic indicator watched by a large group of investors is the national unemployment rate, which tends to show the overall health of the national economy. For the month of October 2012, the national unemployment rate was reported at 7.9%, up 0.1% from the September 2012 value of 7.8% and below the twelve month average of 8.3%. The uptick in unemployment is being described as more people re-entering the workforce in search of employment as the economy continues slow incremental improvement.

The unemployment rate is considered a “lagging” economic indicator and does not reflect immediate or current financial and economic events. The unemployment rate does indicate the level of idle workers as a percentage of the overall labor force. The chart below shows the national unemployment rate for the past twelve months:

A more accurate gauge of the employment sector and the improving economy is the amount of jobs being created. The Bureau of Labor Statistics publishes monthly the value of US Employees on nonfarm payrolls, which is an indication of how the corporate or business sector is hiring. For the month of October 2012, the nonfarm payroll number was reported to be 171,000 new jobs created, up from the revised value for the September 2012 of 148,000 (revised upward from previously reported value of 114,000). It should be noted the August 2012 value was also revised upward from an initial value of 96,000 to 142,000 to a ‘final’ value of 192,000 new jobs. The annual (twelve month average) value with the revised values shows approximately 162,000 monthly new jobs are being created, which is slightly above the minimum value of 160,000 new monthly jobs that economists have said are needed to show significant economic growth. The chart below shows the nonfarm payroll values for the past two years:

Another economic factor we watch is the monthly Retail Sales (less Autos), which measures the level of consumer spending and provides an indication of the underlying vitality of the overall national economy. The October 2012 retail sales data was not available at the time this report was prepared, and the chart reflects retail sales data through September 2012. For the period from February 2012 through August 2012 the national retail sales number has stayed around $330 billion, however, the September 2012 value was reported at $337.4 billion which is an encouraging indicator the consumer, which makes up to 70% of national expenditures, is again spending. This trend combined with reduced job creation is contributing to a slowdown in the economic activity as consumers are becoming more cautious of the future vitality of the economy. The chart below shows the monthly increase in consumer spending for the past twenty four months:

Supporting the slow trend in retail sales, we see the annualized rate of auto sales showing an annualized value at approximately 14 million units. This economic statistic is cyclical and driven by a combination of consumer confidence, the price of gasoline and the overall health of the economy. The chart below shows the monthly annualized auto sales for the past twenty four months:

INVESTMENT PERFORMANCE/

The City’s investment portfolio remains strongly diversified and invested in high credit quality issues of U.S. Treasuries, Federal Agencies, Medium Term Corporate Notes and high grade commercial paper. Investments in money market accounts are restricted to U.S. Treasury and Federal Agencies only and a review of the State of California Local Agency Investment Fund (LAIF) shows high levels of liquidity and safe investments. The City’s investment strategy continues to focus on safety and providing liquidity for the City’s operational requirements.

For October 31, 2012, the City Treasurer’s Investment Portfolio performance was:

	Amount of Funds (Market Value)	Maturity	Effective Yield	Interpolated Yield	Total Return Monthly	Total Return Annual
Short-Term Portfolio	$ 107,137,761	14 days	0.19 %	0.04 %	0.016	0.330
Long-Term Portfolio	$ 270,989,809	2.1 years	1.93 %	0.30 %	0.035	2.155
Total Portfolio	$ 378,127,570	1.5 years	1.43 %	0.25 %	0.029	1.842

The portfolio balance includes a deposit for the acquisition funds of the 2011A Electric Bonds of $60,914,451, as of the September 30, 2012 bond fund report balance. As a “AA” credit rated portfolio, we are recognized as a permitted investment by the bond indenture of the above bonds. These funds enjoy the advantage of superior market rates of return in a historically low interest rate environment.

Please note the use of interpolated yield values and total return values are guidelines and not used in the performance evaluation of the portfolio. The investment of public funds is exposed to a large range of variable factors, such as increases or decreases in revenues and expenditures as well as seasonal timing, which can affect the cash flow of the City.

The City's investment portfolio continues to provide above market rates of return on funds invested as shown in the following graph which shows the City's net overall performance to a market indicator for the past twelve months:
