INVESTMENT ACTIVITIES

The City Treasurer's Investment Portfolio received a credit rating of AAf and a volatility rating of S1 from Standard and Poor's in July 2008. The portfolio is reviewed monthly by Standard and Poor's for portfolio holdings, liquidity values and the overall management of the investment staff. Standard and Poor's reaffirmed the City's AAf credit rating during their annual June 2010 due diligence review. The City of Anaheim is only the fourth City in the country at this time to receive the prestigious credit rating.

In addition to independent verification of the high standard for the City’s investment program, the AAf credit rating is recognized by leading bond insurer's as a highly safe investment option for future City bond issues and to include the City’s portfolio as a ‘permitted investment’ in the bond covenants.

On August 11, 2008, the City of Anaheim’s Investment Policy was recognized and certified by the Association of Professional Treasurers of the United States and Canada (APT US&C) as meeting all standards and criteria established by the APT US&C.

INVESTMENT ENVIRONMENT

The economic environment continues to show a slow and uneven recovery. One economist has referred to the current recovery as “the square root” recovery, meaning the graph shows a definitive drop, then a significant short term recovery, followed by a long gradual increasing growth line, similar to the shape of the square root sign in mathematics. One key indicator that appears to support this description is the national unemployment rate. Since May 2009, the national unemployment rate has remained above 9.4 percent, reaching a high of 10.1 % in October 2009 and registering 9.6 % for August 2010. This indicator is considered a “lagging” economic indicator and does not immediately reflect any improvement in economic conditions. It appears unemployment will continue to stay at current levels through the remainder of calendar year 2010 as other economic sectors of the economy continue to show mixed results. The chart below shows the national unemployment rate for the past twenty four months:

Another economic factor that measures the vitality of the overall national economy is the economic strength of the consumer as measured in the monthly Retail Sales (less Autos) figures. The chart below shows that from September 2008 through August 2010, the level of consumer spending increased, showing signs of recovery. However, the past four months have shown a slower level in consumer expenditures. This leveling effect supports the theory of a “square root” recovery. This data reflects the daily buying habits of consumers and does not indicate the level of “large” or “major” purchases, such as autos, houses, etc. The chart below shows Retail Sales (less Autos) for the past twenty four months:

We look to Auto Sales as an indicator of consumer buying sentiment, particularly the consumer sentiment toward large dollar purchases. There was a rapid decrease in auto sales in the summer of 2008. Since that time, auto sales have remained somewhat steady at 9 million units for domestic sales and 11 to 12 million annualized units for total auto sales. The spike in auto sales in July and August 2009 was the result of the “cash for clunkers” stimulus program. The chart below shows the monthly annualized auto sales for the past twenty four months:

Interest rates for the month ending August 2010 continued to move lower due to concerns that the economic recovery is beginning to stall or move at a slower pace that could be interpreted as “malaise”. There was some discussion about an additional stimulus effort from Washington, however, with November elections, we do not anticipate any action until at least the end of the calendar year. Investors still are purchasing U.S. Treasury debt issues as a safe harbor until the issues listed above show evidence of improvement. The Federal Reserve’s ‘Federal Open Market Committee’ (FOMC) meeting on August 10, 2010 continued to reaffirm the benchmark Federal Funds rate at the range of 0.0% to 0.25%. This key market interest rate has remained at this level since the FOMC meeting on December 16, 2008. The statement issued by the FOMC to justify the continued low interest rates is a “risk to growth” in the overall economy. The Federal Funds interest rate is the interest rate that banks charge other banks to borrow money. The Federal Reserve has continued to indicate that with the slow economic recovery and absence of evidence of sustainability, their posture is to hold short term interest rates at current levels for the foreseeable future. A majority of economists and market participants do not anticipate an increase in interest rates until the second half of calendar year 2011.

The City’s short-term portfolio ended August earning 0.34%, as compared to the three month U.S. Treasury bill yield of 0.14%. The longer term portfolio’s yield was 2.61%, which exceeded the interpolated yield of 0.35% for the month of August 2010. Interest rates remain at historic low levels as the concern for economic recovery weighs heavy on the financial markets. We do not anticipate any material rise in interest rates until either inflationary pressures increase or the Federal Reserve changes its current strategy. The chart below shows the interest rates for U. S. Treasury issues for month ending August 2010:

Source: Bloomberg Financial Systems

The City’s investment portfolio remains strongly diversified and invested in high credit quality issues of U.S. Treasuries, Federal Agencies, Medium Term Corporate Notes and high grade commercial paper. Investments in money market accounts are restricted to U.S. Treasury and Federal Agencies only and a review of the State of California Local Agency Investment Fund (LAIF) shows high levels of liquidity and safe investments. The City’s investment strategy continues to focus on safety and providing liquidity for the City’s operational requirements.

INVESTMENT PERFORMANCE

For August 2010, the City Treasurer’s Investment Portfolio performance was:

	Amount of Funds (Market Value)	Maturity	Effective Yield	Interpolated Yield	Total Return Monthly	Total Return Annual
Short-Term Portfolio	$ 117,235,549	9 days	0.34 %	0.16 %	0.027	0.283
Long-Term Portfolio	$ 242,490,054	2.1 years	2.61 %	0.47 %	0.252	3.798
Total Portfolio	$ 359,725,603	1.4 years	1.86 %	0.35 %	0.176	2.603

Please note the use of interpolated yield values and total return values are guidelines and not used in the performance evaluation of the portfolio. The investment of public funds is exposed to a large range of variable factors, such as increases or decreases in revenues and expenditures as well as seasonal timing, which can affect the cash flow of the City.

The City’s investment portfolio continues to provide a market rate of return on funds as shown in the following graph which shows the City’s net overall performance to a market indicator for the past twelve months:
