INVESTMENT ACTIVITIES

The City Treasurer’s Investment Portfolio received a credit rating of AAf and a volatility rating of S1 from Standard and Poor’s in July 2008. The portfolio is reviewed monthly by Standard and Poor’s for portfolio holdings, liquidity values and the overall management of the investment staff. Standard and Poor’s reaffirmed the City’s AAf credit rating during their annual June 2010 due diligence review. The City of Anaheim is only the fourth City in the country at this time to receive the prestigious credit rating.

In addition to independent verification of the high standard for the City’s investment program, the AAAs credit rating is recognized by leading bond insurer's as a highly safe investment option for future City bond issues and to include the City’s portfolio as a ‘permitted investment’ in the bond covenants.

On August 11, 2008, the City of Anaheim’s Investment Policy was recognized and certified by the Association of Professional Treasurers of the United States and Canada (APT US&C) as meeting all standards and criteria established by the APT US&C.

INVESTMENT ENVIRONMENT

The economy continues its slow recovery from the worst recession since the depression of the 1930’s. Economists agree the recession ended in the second quarter of 2009; however, the recovery appears to be a slow incremental return to growth instead of a rapid return to the “old days” of economic activity. Several economists have called the recovery the “square root” recovery, graphically resembling the sign of the square root sign in mathematics. We experienced the rapid dip in economic activity in 2008 followed by an equal recovery or “bounce” in economic action which yields to a long, flat line incremental gradual growth estimated to be several years before we return to economic levels prior to the recession.

The unemployment rate for December 2010 showed a decrease of 4/10’s of a percent to close at 9.4%. This is the lowest level for unemployment since July 2009 and may indicate that we finally are stabilizing our economy and showing a trend toward increasing employment. One month does not make a trend, however, the decrease does provide some optimism that we have hit the highs in unemployment for this economic cycle. It should be noted this economic indicator is considered a “lagging” indicator and does not immediately reflect any improvement in economic conditions. Even with the lower value, it appears unemployment will continue to stay at current levels through a majority of the 2011 calendar year. The chart below shows the national unemployment rate for the past twenty four months:

Another key economic factor we review is the monthly Retail Sales (less Autos), which measures the spending of consumers and indicates the underlying vitality of the overall national economy. This economic indicator tends to be cyclic, improving during traditional sales periods, such as the holidays, and slowing during non-holiday periods. The chart below shows that from December 2008 through November 2010, the level of consumer spending has shown a steady increase to support the economic recovery:

Source: Census Bureau, US Government

We also look at the level of Auto Sales as an indicator of consumer buying sentiment, particularly the consumer sentiment toward large dollar purchases. For the past twenty four months, auto sales have shown flat to slow growth, with the exception of the “cash for clunkers” program in August 2009, which caused a temporary “spike” in auto sales. Since that time, auto sales have slowly increased at a steady pace at 9 million units for domestic sales and 11 to 12 million annualized units for total auto sales. The chart below shows the monthly annualized auto sales for the past twenty four months:

Interest rates for December 2010 moved significantly higher on concerns about the future of commodity prices which could be inflationary and indicates the economy is in a recovery mode. The two year Treasury Note closed December 2010 at 0.60%, up 0.14% from the November 2010 close of 0.46%. The five year Treasury Note moved up 0.54% from 1.47% in November to close December 2010 at 2.01%. This upward movement in interest rates may prove temporary as the European markets are still facing a financial crisis with the countries of Ireland and Portugal casting a financial shadow on the world economies.

The Federal Reserve announced at the December 14, 2010 ‘Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) meeting that the ‘target’ Federal Funds rate would remain at the range of 0.0% to 0/25%, citing continued “risk to growth” to the economy. This key market interest rate has remained at this level since the FOMC meeting on December 16, 2008. The Federal Funds interest rate is the interest rate that banks charge other banks to borrow money.

The Federal Reserve has continued to indicate that with the slow economic recovery and absence of evidence of sustainability, their posture is to hold short term interest rates at current levels for the foreseeable future. A majority of economists and market participants do not anticipate an increase in interest rates until the second half of calendar year 2011.

The City’s short-term portfolio ended December 2010 earning 0.36%, as compared to the three month U.S. Treasury bill yield of 0.12%. The longer term portfolio’s yield was 2.69%, which exceeded the interpolated yield of 0.58% for the month of December 2010. We do not anticipate any material rise in interest rates until either inflationary pressures increase or the Federal Reserve changes its current strategy. The chart below shows the interest rates for U. S. Treasury issues for the month ending December 2010:

Source: Bloomberg Financial Systems

The City’s investment portfolio remains strongly diversified and invested in high credit quality issues of U.S. Treasuries, Federal Agencies, Medium Term Corporate Notes and high grade commercial paper. Investments in money market accounts are restricted to U.S. Treasury and Federal Agencies only and a review of the State of California Local Agency Investment Fund (LAIF) shows high levels of liquidity and safe investments. The City’s investment strategy continues to focus on safety and providing liquidity for the City’s operational requirements.

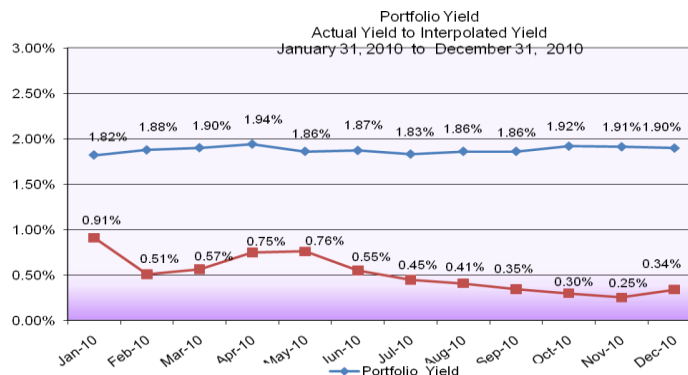

INVESTMENT PERFORMANCE

For December 2010, the City Treasurer’s Investment Portfolio performance was:

	Amount of Funds (Market Value)	Maturity	Effective Yield	Interpolated Yield	Total Return Monthly	Total Return Annual
Short-Term Portfolio	$ 105,898,549	2 days	0.36 %	0.12 %	0.028	0.421
Long-Term Portfolio	$ 210,264,073	2.0 years	2.69 %	0.58 %	-0.063	3.526
Total Portfolio	$ 316,162,622	1.3 years	1.90%	0.35 %	-0.033	2.802

Please note the use of interpolated yield values and total return values are guidelines and not used in the performance evaluation of the portfolio. The investment of public funds is exposed to a large range of variable factors, such as increases or decreases in revenues and expenditures as well as seasonal timing, which can affect the cash flow of the City.

The City’s investment portfolio continues to provide an above market rate of return on funds as shown in the following graph which shows the City’s net overall performance to a market indicator for the past twelve months:
