INVESTMENT ACTIVITIES

The City Treasurer’s Investment Portfolio has a current rating of “AAf” from Standard and Poor’s (S&P). This rating was effective August 8, 2011, as a result of the action of S&P downgrading the debt issues of the United States Treasury and Federal Agencies from a credit rating of “AAA” to “AA+”. The credit rating reflects the investment holdings of the City’s Investment Portfolio (approximately 54% of funds in Federal Agency issues) and not the management of the investment fund.

It should be pointed out the downgrade in credit rating is the sole action of Standard and Poor’s, since the other two major national credit firms of Moody’s Investor Services and Fitch Ratings have maintained the “AAA” credit rating on all U.S. Treasury and Federal Agency debt issues. Even with the credit downgrade to the investment portfolio, the investment portfolio is still eligible and qualifies as a ‘permitted investment’ for City bond funds (i.e., project or acquisition funds).

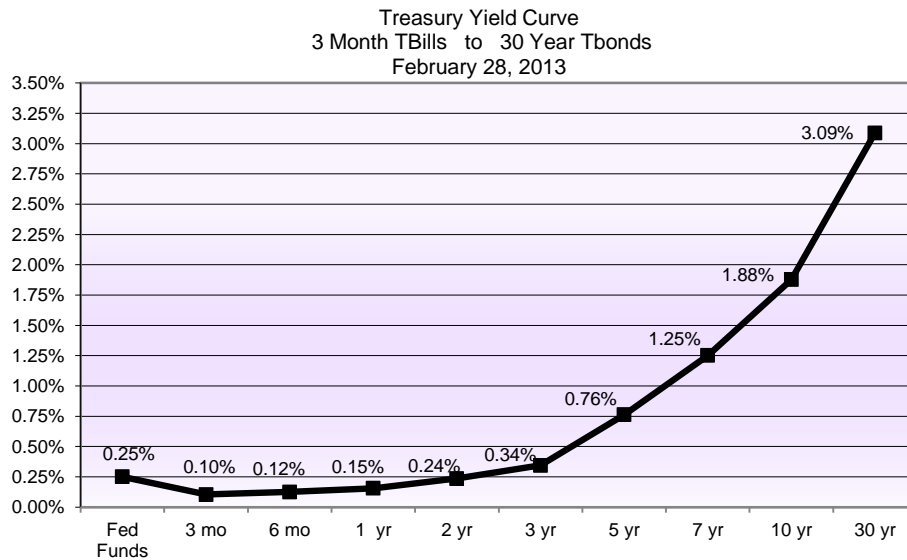

This credit rating is for the City’s investment portfolio and does NOT reflect the credit rating of the City’s bond issues.

On August 11, 2008, the City of Anaheim’s Investment Policy was recognized and certified by the Association of Professional Treasurers of the United States and Canada (APT US&C) as meeting all standards and criteria established by the APT US&C.

INVESTMENT ENVIRONMENT

The month of February 2013 saw interest rates move lower as concerns about the federal budget continued to cause angst with the financial markets. The spectre of “sequestered” budget cuts became a new lexicon in our vocabulary as the political arm wrestling continued in Washington D.C. Ironically, the financial conditions in Europe seem to be temporarily abated so interest rates remained at low levels. The economy shows signs of returning to normal but the recovery is still fragile and the action of “sequestered” budget cuts added to the approaching debt limitation ceiling which Congress will have to address places a high level of uncertainty with the financial markets.

The three month U.S. Treasury bill closed February 2013 at 0.10%, up 0.03% from the January 2013 close of 0.07%. However, the six month U.S. Treasury bill was unchanged from the prior month at 0.12%. Further out on the yield curve interest rates move slightly lower, with the three year U.S. Treasury Notes closing at 0.34%, down 0.06% from January and the benchmark ten year U.S Treasury Note closing February at 1.88%, down 0.11% from the January 2013 close. The chart below shows the interest rates for U.S. Treasury issues for the month ending February 2013:

The Federal Reserve continues to maintain the benchmark “Federal Funds” rate in the established range of 0.00% to 0.25% with the explanation of “risk to growth”. The Fed Funds rate has been at this rate for over four years, since the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) took action at their December 2008 meeting. The FOMC meeting of January 30, 2013 continued its low rate policy action. There is no indication that at the next FOMC meeting scheduled for March 30, 2013 that there will be a change in policy. Federal Reserve Chairman Bernanke has voiced his concern for the slow growth of new job creation in the economy and has indicated he is prepared to advance additional stimulus, which the financial markets are calling “qualitative easing” or QE 3. Mr. Bernanke has also stated he intends to keep rates at these levels through the end of calendar year 2014 and even into 2015.

The U.S. economy continues to show slow incremental growth. A key economic indicator watched by a large group of investors is the national unemployment rate, which tends to show the overall health of the national economy. For the month of February 2013, the national unemployment rate was reported at 7.7%, down 2/10’s of a percent from the January 2013 value of 7.9% and below the twelve month average of 8.0%. The level has declined significantly from the December 2011 level of 8.5%, however, economists are still forecasting the rate at 7.0% or higher for calendar year 2013.

The unemployment rate is considered a “lagging” economic indicator and does not reflect immediate or current financial and economic events. The unemployment rate does indicate the level of idle workers as a percentage of the overall labor force. The chart below shows the national unemployment rate for the past twelve months:

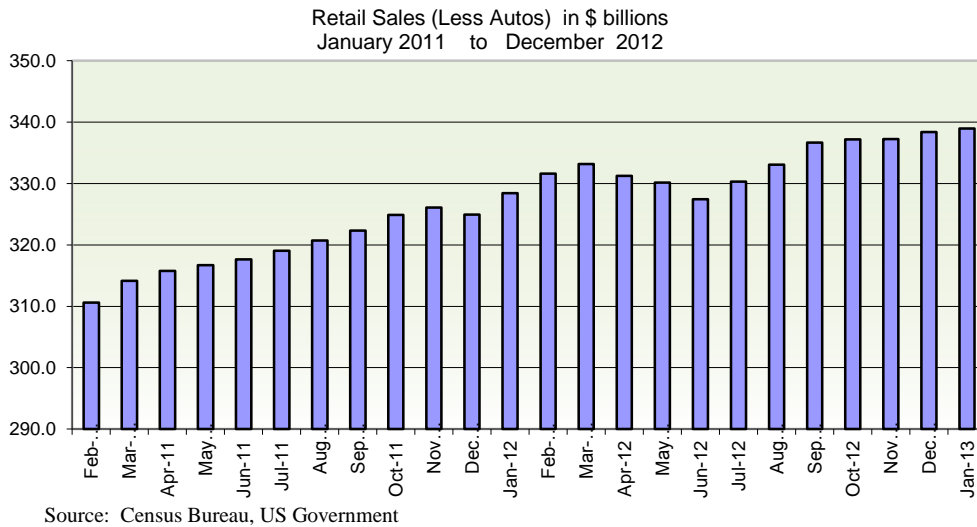

Source: Bureau of Statistics, Dept. of Labor

A more accurate gauge of the employment sector and the improving economy is the amount of jobs being created. The Bureau of Labor Statistics publishes monthly the value of US Employees on nonfarm payrolls, which is an indication of how the corporate or business sector is hiring. For the month of February 2013, the nonfarm payroll number was reported to be 236,000 new jobs created, up from the revised value for the January 2013 of 119,000 (revised downward from a previously reported value of 157,000). The annual (twelve month average) value with the revised values shows approximately 164,000 monthly new jobs are being created, which is slightly above the minimum value of 160,000 new monthly jobs that economists have said are needed to show significant economic growth. The chart below shows the nonfarm payroll values for the past two years:

Source: U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics

Another economic factor we watch is the monthly Retail Sales (less Autos), which measures the level of consumer spending and provides an indication of the underlying vitality of the overall national economy. The February 2013 value was not available at the time this report was written, however, the January 2013 retail sales data showed annualized retail sales less autos to be $339.0 billion or 0.2% higher than December 2012 value of $338.4 billion. The small increase in the monthly retail sales may reflect the additional social security withholding tax that was increased with January 2013 payrolls, causing consumers to defer some purchases. For the past four months (October 2012 thru January 2013) retail sales have increased at an annualized rate of 0.8%. The chart below shows the monthly increase in consumer spending for the past twenty four months:

INVESTMENT PERFORMANCE/

The City’s investment portfolio remains strongly diversified and invested in high credit quality issues of U.S. Treasuries, Federal Agencies, Medium Term Corporate Notes and high grade commercial paper. Investments in money market accounts are restricted to U.S. Treasury and Federal Agencies only and a review of the State of California Local Agency Investment Fund (LAIF) shows high levels of liquidity and safe investments. The City’s investment strategy continues to focus on safety and providing liquidity for the City’s operational requirements.

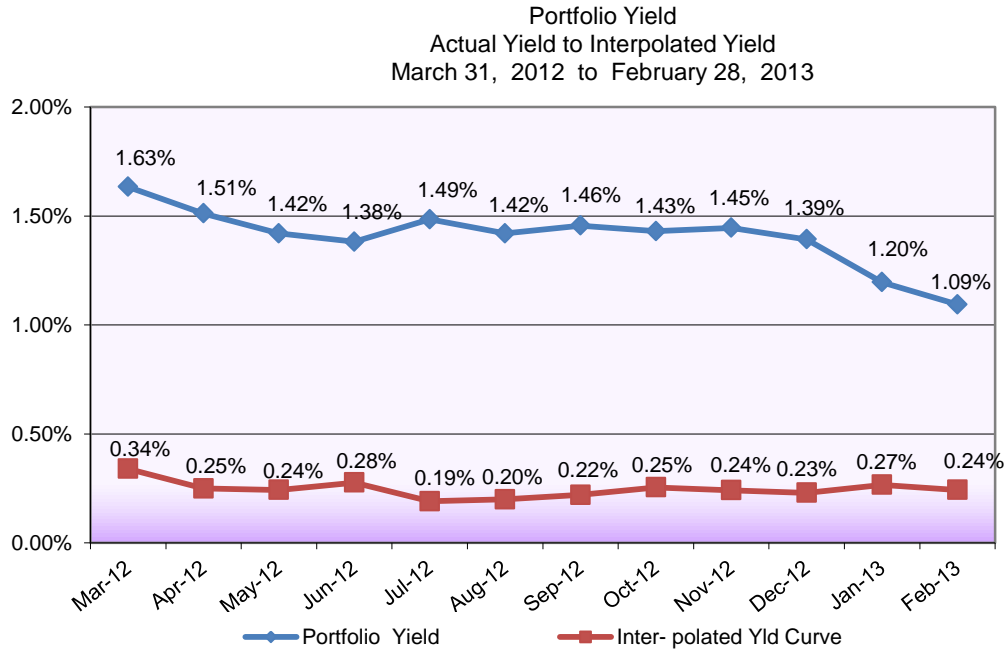

For February 28, 2013, the City Treasurer’s Investment Portfolio performance was:

	Amount of Funds (Market Value)	Maturity	Effective Yield	Interpolated Yield	Total Return Monthly	Total Return Annual
Short-Term Portfolio	$ 128,239,171	31 days	0.18 %	0.06 %	0.012	0.261
Long-Term Portfolio	$ 286,885,162	2.8 years	1.51 %	0.33 %	0.222	1.415
Total Portfolio	$ 415,124,333	2.0 years	1.09 %	0.24 %	0.155	1.130

The portfolio balance includes a deposit for the acquisition funds of the 2011A Electric Bonds of $46,530,619 as of the February 28, 2013 bond fund report balance. As a “AA” credit rated portfolio, we are recognized as a permitted investment by the bond indenture of the above bonds. These funds enjoy the advantage of superior market rates of return in a historically low interest rate environment.

Please note the use of interpolated yield values and total return values are guidelines and not used in the performance evaluation of the portfolio. The investment of public funds is exposed to a large range of variable factors, such as increases or decreases in revenues and expenditures as well as seasonal timing, which can affect the cash flow of the City.

The City's investment portfolio continues to provide above market rates of return on funds invested as shown in the following graph which shows the City's net overall performance to a market indicator for the past twelve months:

IMPACT ON BUDGET:

There is no impact on the General Fund.
