Hello,

Thank you so much for your previous response, and the clarification regarding the elections! From this information, I changed the theory of my paper to focus on voter turnout instead of party identification. Since the topic is no longer focusing on party ID and each individual campaign, the data presented doesn't stretch as far as needed. I greatly appreciate all of the resolution numbers, and was wondering if I could get election data for city council going back even further, as my data set from 2016-1980 only yields a quantity of 20.

Thank you again and I hope you have a wonderful week!

Ms. Gonzalez,

The City is in receipt of your below request. Anaheim City Council and Mayoral races are non-partisan positions. The City has no records responsive to your request for “the party identification of the member-at-large candidate who won” nor “the percentage of votes from Democrats and Republicans for that candidate.”

Elections results and vote totals are available online for all previous elections, through which you may find some information useful for your research. The most current election results are available at: www.anaheim.net/elections. Previous election results can be found via City-Council approved resolutions at: www.anaheim.net/records. In order to get your data set of 50, you will need to review all elections back to 1980. As a courtesy, please find below a list of resolutions containing election results:

Subject: Election Data
Importance: High

Hi!

My name is Lili Gonzalez and I am an Anaheim Hills resident, and current senior student at Baylor University in Waco, Texas. I am emailing to see if I can obtain some basic election data for a term paper. I am in a Campaigns & Elections class this semester and part of our assignment is to create a regression analysis for elections in an area of our choosing. My focus is on the city of Anaheim, and specifically city council elections prior to 2016.

The specific data I am looking to obtain is the party identification of the member-at-large candidate who won, along with the percentage of votes from Democrats and Republicans for that candidate. I also need a data set of at least 50, so I am unsure as to how far back that information would go to account for 50 winning candidates.

Please let me know if this information is attainable, and if I need to do anything else on my end. I greatly appreciate any help you can offer!

Thank you and have a great rest of your week!
